24. That they observed Steven T. Robinson, along with two of the tavern's patrons, standing in the rear doorway of the bar and refusing them entry.
25. That one of those patrons, Richard Holtz, told officers that he was trying to leave through the back door because he was concerned that Steven T. Robinson refused to answer the door and did not wish to exacerbate his (Holtz's) health issues.
26. That when Sergeant Corwin tried to enter the premises, Steven T. Robinson pushed him away from the door.
27. That Sergeant Corwin and Officer Scott had to forcibly remove Steven T. Robinson from the doorway so that officers could enter the premises.
28. That Officer Scott grabbed Steven T. Robinson's upper body to control him to effectuate arrest, but Steven T. Robinson resisted Officer Scott.

37. That based on his training and experience, Officer Scott believed Steven T. Robinson to be highly intoxicated, and Steven T. Robinson later admitted to officers that he was intoxicated.
38. That as a result of Steven T. Robinson resisting arrest, Officer Scott suffered pain in his left knee and ankle, a deep bruise to his left leg, and a twisted ankle, which caused him to limp.
39. That the white female with blonde hair was identified as Nichole Younk, who admitted to Officer Haiser that she was the driver of the vehicle that crashed.
40. That Younk said that she told Steven T. Robinson about the accident when she walked into the bar and watched him lock the door to the bar.
41. That Younk was later arrested for operating while intoxicated after exhibiting signs of alcohol use and failing field sobriety tests.
42. That Officer Scott issued Steven T. Robinson a citation for refusing police permission to enter a licensed premise in violation of West Allis Revised Municipal Code Ordinance 9.02(12)(a), and he was found guilty of that citation in West Allis Municipal Court.
